

“Hi Mr. Smith, this is what my new product looks like; it has a gerbera shaped head that projects a siren-like light, once you turn it on it will elevate and bounce from right to left while twirling about. And it produces a sound that’s like something between a bee’s hum and a phone vibration. I’ll put it near the phone so you can hear it. Oh can’t you hear it?...”

If Mr Smith can picture it, you could've closed a deal.

“Hi just emailed you a picture of that snake fight when we’re on the phone earlier. The snake was tied in a knot in that picture, but during the fight, it grabbed the wild cat from the back and the cat bit it back at the tail. The snake has tied itself into a knot and pushed the cat away by entangling the knot off its body, it’s amazing!”

When even a picture can't tell a thousand words...
